

Committee Will Study Student Union Needs

"Prove that a Student Union is needed at OU and then decide what services it should provide."

This charge was given by President Milo Bail to OU's committee on the proposed Student Union. The committee met with Dr. Bail Monday afternoon.

"There is no question in my mind that we need a student activities building," Dr. Bail said, "but the reasons for the building must be formally presented to the Regents."

The committee, composed of 15 student, alumni and faculty representatives, is headed by Glenn Lewis, business instructor. The committee will meet each Tuesday afternoon.

One committee was chosen at Monday's meeting. Charles Hoff, Burt McMillan and Bruce Linton will handle publicity for the group. A monthly progress report is planned.

Dr. Bail also answered questions asked by committee members concerning past work on a Union. Dr. Bail said that no plans have ever been officially presented to the Regents, although several sets of ideas have been put on paper.

He also explained that, until this year, there was not enough money available to provide the down-payment on the building. He added that the University must pay about half of the cost before bonds can be issued for the remaining portion.

Delegates to ISA Regional Conclave Select Richardson

Mary Richardson of Omaha U's Independent Students Association was elected recording secretary of the Rocky Mountain region of NISA.

The officers for the region were elected at the final business session of the ISA meeting last Saturday.

President of the region for 1952-53 is Vicki Rosenwald of Kansas U. Vice-president is Bud Palmer of Arizona U., and treasurer is Jim Baird of Kansas. Baird will also serve as public relations chairman.

The site of next year's convention will be Colorado University at Boulder. The date, as well as the national group's corresponding secretary, will be chosen by the CU chapter.

"Attendance at the convention last week was excellent," said OU ISA President Jane Hoff. Jane said that about 75 delegates attended the meeting from midwestern colleges. About 155 OU members also took part in the convention.

Alumni Chairmen Plan Homecoming

Alumni Homecoming plans are rolling forward at a fast pace. The Homecoming celebration is highlighted by the Victory Dance at the Fontenelle following the Homecoming game. The plans for the event are under the over-all direction of Joe Baker, '48.

Alumni members are meeting with a faculty and student committee to coordinate plans for the annual celebration. Roderic Crane, professor of economics, and Raymond Hampton, student council member, represent OU on the committee.

Chairmen for the Homecoming committees are: Publicity, Henrietta Keiser, '40, and Charlie Ammons, '49; "Greeters," Bill Fear, '50; entertainment, Jack Feerman, '49; calling, Glenn Desmond, '49; and, reservations, Harold Poff, '49.

Speech Panel Holds Forum

The "Panel of Americans" movement is getting into full swing again this fall with the first scheduled discussion period to be held at 6 p. m., Sunday, at the First Presbyterian Church, Thirty-fourth and Farnam Streets.

The forum is in conjunction with First Presbyterian's "Gateway of Life" Sunday meetings.

Miss Marion Hargraves, National Field Director of the Panel of Americans movement, will be guest moderator. Miss Hargraves' visit to Omaha will give her opportunity to see how effective Omaha's panel is operating.

Those appearing in Sunday's panel include Tom Burke, Hugo Kahn, Millicent Wheeler and Henry Giles. J. D. Tyson, head of the Speech Department, is faculty sponsor of the panel.

Monday, Miss Hargraves will visit the Omaha University campus to meet with University officials. Presidents and a delegate selected from each of the campus organizations, along with faculty and administration members, will attend a coffee hour. The coffee hour, by invitation only, will be held at 3:30 p. m. in the faculty clubroom.

Radio Department Presents Accident Series Over KOIL

"Accident List," a new radio safety series, is being presented by the Omaha University Speech and Dramatic Arts Department in cooperation with the Omaha Safety Council and Radio Station KOIL.

The 13-week series is to be presented each Wednesday at 8:15 p. m., and is to deal with various types of accidents and their prevention.

On-the-spot transcriptions of accidents are to be made by speech students working directly from a rescue squad unit. These tapes will later be dubbed into the regular program tape and utilized whenever possible on the series.

The following student writers have been assigned specific shows: Cliff Soubler, juvenile; Georgia Redfield, traffic; John Soubler, fire; and Jerry Clark, the first rescue program.

The first show, presented last Wednesday, dealt with children's accidents and safety patrol problems. It was written by Jack Katz, student coordinator for the Speech Department, and announced by Dale Kadavy.

There is little prospect that the people of the world, or any part of it, will ever agree upon all subjects. The role of civilization is to guide us in relationships with those with whom we disagree.

Students Elect Officers In Election Wednesday

Aksel Schmidt, Duane Post, Jerry Tannahill and Dick Matthews were elected presidents of their respective classes in the all-school election Wednesday.

Schmidt will head the class of '52. He will be assisted by Don Fitch and Syntha Judd, as vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

Heading the juniors is Post, with Bob Schropp serving as vice-president and Jane Englehardt as secretary-treasurer.

President of the freshman class is Dick Matthews. Assisting as vice-president is Don Schroder, while Rae Johnson is the new secretary-treasurer.

Men on the Student Council are Gary Luse and Kyle Pettit. Women are Mary Cosford and Mary Jane Jeter.

Student Council President Ray Hampton expressed disappointment at the small number of voters who turned out. Only 49 per cent of the eligible students voted. In figures, 719 voted out of 1,477.

The junior class had the highest percentage, with 57 per cent. Actually 146 juniors voted out of 255 eligible. The sophomores had a percentage of 52, while 51 per cent of the seniors voted.

The freshmen showed the poorest turnout at the polls. Only 204 of 681 voted for a percentage of 43.

Policy Lets Students Form Political Groups

Students may now give a real voice to their political affiliations on the Omaha University campus. Steps have been taken to organize Young Republican and Young Democrat Clubs among the students.

Previous to this year, campus regulations had prevented the formation of these clubs. However, the University rules still prohibit any candidates for public office speaking on the campus.

"The purpose of the clubs," said Roderic Crane, professor of economics, "is purely social and educational. It is not directed toward the election of any one individual."

William Utley, government professor, added "that the clubs will certainly be directed along political lines and ideas."

The organization of these political clubs will strive to promote 100 percent voting among the young citizens. They will discuss current issues and the affect on world living.

Both the Young Republican Club and the Young Democrat Club will be a continuing organization and will not drop off campus or out of circulation after the November national elections.

Woman Marine Will Stop at OU

Applicants for Woman Marine officer training will be interviewed Wednesday by 1st Lt. Margaret O'Neill at OU.

Lieutenant O'Neill is procurement officer for the district covering Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and Colorado. Her headquarters is in St. Louis, Mo.

OU Players Hold First Meet This Afternoon

The University Players will have their first business meeting this afternoon at 3 in room 303.

This meeting is for the actives only. Election of officers will be held.

Writer Wolfe Will Address World Affairs

A 35-year veteran of world affairs will speak at the Institute on World Affairs next Wednesday. Henry C. Wolfe will speak on "Russia and the West" before the Institute audience in the auditorium.

Wolfe began his work in world affairs as an American volunteer on French and Italian war fronts during World War I. Following that war, he returned to Europe as a member of the Hoover Commission in Soviet Russia. In the following years, he spent much time abroad making a special long-term study of German and Russian expansion programs.

As a writer and foreign correspondent, he predicted many major events. In the summer of 1939, Wolfe forecast the signing of the Nazi-Soviet Pact. In articles published in Harper's Magazine and American Weekly, he predicted the all-out war to be started by Hitler.

A month before Pearl Harbor, Wolfe told a New York audience that Japan would attack the United States. During the war, he was a war correspondent and a member of General Leclerc's division which liberated Paris.

Yearbook Editor Makes '53 Staff Appointments

Staff appointments for the 1953 Tomahawk have been completed. Editor Larry Boersma said that the appointments had been cleared with the Dean of Students office and that the staff will be geared immediately for work.

Associate editor is Frank Schuchart, while Danny Langevin is in charge of all photography. J. Thorson is art editor. Dick McKee is sports editor. His assistant, who will be in charge of girls' sports, is Barbara Galloway.

Makeup editor is Rod Ross. News editors include Paul Chering, Anne McConney, Derelle Blumer, Jim Townsend and Sheila Schwid.

Phyllis Brisby Leads 'Grain of Sand' Staff

Phyllis Brisby will head the '52-'53 editorial board of "The Grain of Sand," OU's literary magazine. Members of the board are Charles Murray, Amos Turnbow, Marianne Yates and Ann McConney. The first issue of "The Grain of Sand" will be published in December.

Dr. Robert Harper, faculty advisor for the literary magazine, urges students to turn in their original manuscripts. There is no limit to the number of stories, poems or essays each student may submit.

All manuscripts must be submitted by Nov. 1. Because of the limited number of pages of the magazine, entries should be 2,000 words or less. The contributions will be received in Room 321-B.

The first issue of "The Grain of Sand" was published last May and sold for 45 cents. Top interest was shown in the first literary magazine.

Nelson Extends Time for Chest Campaign

The Community Chest drive among employees of the University has been extended a second week. The canvass began last week but the second announcement was issued to give all employees an opportunity to turn in their pledge cards. Don O. Nelson is chairman of the employees' drive.

The faculty team contacting business establishments for contributions received $1,048 after the first week of canvassing.

The nine-man team quota for the 1953 drive is $1,564. The only team to go over its quota at first report was the team of Glenn Lewis and Glen Bowker. The two men collected $320 this year, compared to $234 in the 1952 drive. Other members on the team are Robert McGranahan, Donald Emery, Frank Gibson, Col. Allen Wood, William Utley, Donald Pfisterer and Clifford Ellis.

The Douglas County Chest campaign has a goal of $1,194,262, an increase of $53,000 over last year's quota.

Night Education Advances

Things are really jumping in Omaha University's College of Adult Education, termed "Omaha's Busiest Night Spot."

A successful current semester is indicated by the hike in enrollment over last fall.

The figure of 1,679 does not include day school students who are enrolled in night classes.

The 12 classes that the school conducts at Offutt Field have shown an increase of 20 per cent enrollment over last year.

The first issue of the College of Adult Education News is scheduled to hit the halls Oct. 31. The newspaper is one of the innovations in the curriculum.

Advisor for the publication is Lloyd Berg, journalism instructor at Tech High School. It is especially planned to provide concrete journalism and publication experience in layout, newswriting, make-up and related fields.

Another new face with a new project is Richard H. Brewer conducting the College of Adult Education Choir. The new choir permits students to participate actively and continue interest in vocal music.

The choir will not make a public appearance until the Christmas season.

E. M. Hosman and Dr. Donald Emery, dean and associate dean of the College of Adult Education, respectively, will be in East Lansing, Mich., this week end attending the annual conference of the Adult Education Association of the United States.

Hosman is a member of the national election committee of the national organization. Both Hosman and Dr. Emery serve as members of the delegate assembly.

The Omaha University TV classroom will have a special display at the assembly, scheduled for the new Kellogg Center for Continued Education. Theme of the meeting is the "Challenge of Change."

Travelers Aid Speaker Talks to Night Class

Miss Ruth Cockrell, Travelers Aid Society caseworker in Omaha, spoke to an OU night class Tuesday. The class is called Elements of Social Casework.

Miss Cockrell's talk covered the history of the society, its financial organization and the types of services rendered. She explained that the society is a Community Chest-supported group and is under the supervision of the Department of Family Services in Omaha.

Speed or Cruise, All Must Meet Early Class Deadline

by Lee Nelson

Words describing the abilities of automobile drivers both male and female come and go, but at Omaha University there is one set of vehicle operators that deserve special attention.

These poor souls are afflicted with the common and often fatal disease of 8 o'clock classes.

The aims of these fellows are twofold: (1) To get to said class on time; and, (2) to find a parking space on the main lot.

After 7:50 a. m., both are impossible.

In three years of research, the conclusion has been reached that there are two types of 8 o'clock class drivers.

At Any Cost

Firstly, there is the person who leaves home at 7:45 and careens through the streets not unlike Friday night at Playland Park.

His only objective is to beat the time element at any cost, even $10.00 and costs.

Lines of cars waiting for changing lights, stop signs, one way streets, and innocent bystanders are no longer relevant but rather just a supporting role in the drama of Man vs. Sound.

However, on the other side, is the slow, cautious student, who leaves his home at 7:15, and thus enjoys the scenery on his way to further his knowledge.

Long Wait

This driver obeys all traffic laws and calmly misses his first three classes waiting for the light to change at Happy Hollow Boulevard and Dodge Street.

This person may never pay a fine, but his punishment is a parking space on Pacific Street.

Yet there is one more type of 8 o'clock driver that cannot be placed in either category. I encountered this group only once this semester.

This character leaves comparatively early, but it does not hamper his excretion of the speed limit.

His motto is, "The shortest distance between two points is a straight line."

Flying High

Once he leaves his house, the telephone poles begin to look like pocket fences. Pedestrians are mere flurs on the landscape. Gum is a necessity within reach of the rider.

There is only one stop on this flight and that pause is to gather in a female passenger.

Her objective is to board the missile with least amount of injury. It has been said that she once flew like a pennant for two blocks before her friends reeled her in. Fortunately a bus line parallels the route, in case she falters.

There is only one bit of advice for these drivers. Watch those speed check zones! Last year, police caught so many violators on one day that the fines were paid in the Ak-Sar-Ben Coliseum.

Two Cadets Wear AF-ROTC Medal

Twenty-one guns were fired this week at a small but dignified decoration ceremony at Headquarters, 470th Detachment, AFROTC.

Cadets Ronald Garro and Sebastiano Caporale were presented with the Order of the Golden Shoe Horn.

The citation reads as follows: "This is in recognition of service above and beyond the call of duty. On 14 October 1952, Garro with his sidekick Caporale volunteered for a danger mission with utter disregard for their own soles. Fearlessly and ferociously, they assaulted their primary target... a local shoe manufacturer.

"They encountered stiff resistance but through sheer audacity, they reached their objective... a price of $9.95. While on the target run they magnificently eluded the forays of the Dundee Dell and they returned to home base with these famous words, 'We got the boot.'"

Cadets Garro and Caporale, The Gateway salutes you. By virtue of your unselfish attitude and devotion to the cause you have touched the hearts of those cadets, who, without your spirit, would

Politicians Lay Traps For Pondering Voters

Giant mules, elephants, whistle stops, floating bank accounts, flying mud... all add spark to the national campaigns.

Omaha U.'s guady gathering of politicians also had a bag of surprises for undecided voters.

One zealous group sacrificed the paint job on a jalopy for the "cause," decorating the top with a cardboard "Ouampi." (Mobilgas' flying Red Horse is turning over in his stall.)

One senior politico's backers tried to turn the halls into a small garden of Eden with hot and cold rolling apples.

The fruit was served with speeches by Don Blocker and Dick Palmquist. Although both orators left Daniel Webster's reputation unshaken, they did manage, by sheer volume to punctuate a few professors' lectures with cries of "We Want Aksel."

Jim Klein extolled the merits of his favorites over a loudspeaker system. Reliable sources report that Klein's six-hour morning stand left the poor lad suffering from acute stiffness.

Another physical malady was born in the swirl of the smoke-filled rooms. It's called "Sign-us." Our same prolific reliable source reports around that one freshman carrying a huge amount of signs around his waist slipped his trousers off without being seen.

have to go to summer camp barefoot.

Refreshing Pause? . . .

Between editorials on the Student Union and school spirit, there should be a half-time pause.

Most half-time ceremonies include bands and baton twirlers, but it is impossible to do them full justice on the printed page.

For instance, take the elections this week. Possibly the best campaigning of the week was done on the floor of the "Student Center." The political gentry of Omaha U. smiled up at you from the floor, where only drunks should lie.

If OU's favorite mascot, the curb-side setter, was able to read, he would be the most informed voter on campus. But he is content to rummage around for left-over bits of student lunches. He probably finds more food than the average student eats in a week.

During the summer, the floors were shined to a gleaming finish. But who can see it? The litter of trash obscures any glimpse of that work of art.

Remember the old paper sales you had in grade school? You chose up sides and raced home to beat your sister or brother to the family papers. For some reason, the contest was always declared a tie by school officials.

Just take it from the captain of the Purples in Room 119 at Clifton Hill. One day's waste from the Shack floor would have brought us the prize—the freedom to chew gum for a whole day. EO

Indians Invade Emporia State Teachers

OU Seeks First Road Win In Game Tomorrow Night

By Bob Peck

Hoping to better their 500 mark, the OU Indians invade Emporia, Kans., tomorrow night to clash with Emporia State Teachers College.

The Indians will have to change their habits if they are to win. They have failed to win on the road this year, while they are undefeated on the home field.

The many OU fans who journeyed to Vermillion, S. D., last week are certain their team will command respect the rest of the season.

Because, outmanned and out-weighted, a fighting Indian eleven sat confident South Dakota root-ers back on their heels as they completely outplayed the Coyotes the first period and drew first blood.

Outlook Bright

The outlook for a win at Emporia tomorrow night is bright. Added to the fact that the team has showed they want to win, is the return of Halfback Bob Schropp and Tackle Bob Jackson. Both have been absent since the Morningside game. Schropp suffered cracked ribs, and Jackson a wrenched knee.

The only Indian still on the injured list is Jerry Bahensky, scrappy halfback. He was sidelined with a cracked collar bone. Emporia does not have an impressive record so far this season. Although they dropped Southwestern (Kans.) College last week, 27-6, they lost to Drake the week before, 18-38.

Drake is not the powerhouse it was last year when it had Johnny Wright.

Varied Offense

The Emporia team can expect a variety of offense from the Indian team. OU has used the single wing, spread, split "T," and "T" formations against foes this season.

The spread formation proved its worth last week against the University of South Dakota.

The team was to leave this morning for Emporia. They will practice there tonight, play tomorrow night, and come back Sunday.

Lineups

The defensive unit for Omaha will consist of Maseman and Tom Bell at ends, Harry Johnson and Lee at tackles, Spencer and Hopkins at guards. The linebackers will be Jerry Lawson and Larry Johnson. Aksel Schmidt, Bud Gibbons and Jerry Tannahill make up the defensive backfield.

On offense, Maseman and Bob Rose will be at ends, Steve Marinovich and Harry Johnson at tackles, Hopkins and Dick Edger-ton at guards, and Larry Johnson at center.

Jerry Welling will start at quarterback, with Keith Christie and Schropp or Jerry Ziehe at half-backs. Schmidt will be at full.

Christie Tops OU In Total Offense

After completion of four games, halfback Keith Christie is way out in front of other Indian backs in the total offense department. Christie is nearly 250 yards ahead of runner-up Jerry Welling with a 503-to-261 yard edge.

Although Bob Schropp has missed two games, he has totaled 115 yards on offense to nose out Aksel Schmidt for third place. Schmidt has 99 yards to his credit.

Christie and Welling are battling it out for passing honors. Christie has completed 18 passes while Welling has connected 17 times in 39 tries. Christie has thrown 49 times.

Christie's passes have netted 310 yards to 241 for Welling. Both have tossed three scoring passes.

Seven Share

Percentage-wise, Welling leads with a .436 average. Christie owns a .368 mark.

Schropp leads his mates in average gain per carry on the ground. He has averaged 4.3 yards every time he has carried the ball.

Seven men have shared the Omaha scoring so far this season. Don Maseman and Christie have each scored twice to share the lead with Schmidt who has scored one touchdown and kicked six extra points.

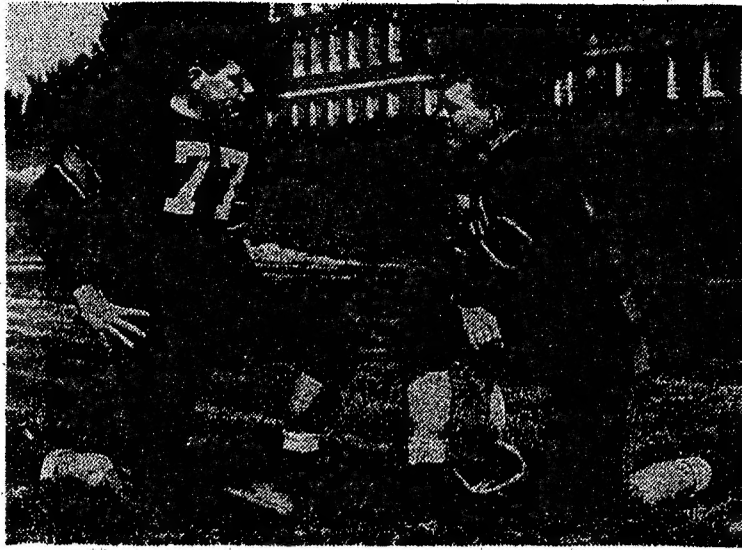

Jerry Ziehe, Bud Gibbon, Jerry Tannahill and Tony Roth each have one touchdown to their credit.

Top Receiver

Maseman has caught 12 passes to lead that department. Two of them have been for touchdowns.

Bob Rose leads in yards gained by catching passes, even though he has caught two less passes than Maseman. Rose's ten catches have been good for 227 yards.

Christie leads all Omaha punters with a respectable 42-yard average. This mark puts him high among punters in the country.

Night Ball Pays Off

Will night football pay?

In a previous issue of the Gateway we attempted to prove that the answer to the lack of support for Omaha football teams lies in night football. We pointed out that working students and working people from Omaha and the surrounding area would be able to attend OU games if they were played at night. We also showed that it is useless for Omaha to attempt to buck Nebraska games and radio and television broadcasts.

In recent years Omaha high schools have found that night football has paid off as high as ten to one over afternoon contests. The same must be true in small college football.

Schools Switch

If it weren't, why would teams like South Dakota, Washburn, Morningside, Emporia, Doane and Nebraska Wesleyan switch to playing under the lights? Not only these schools but practically the entire Nebraska College Conference has switched to night ball.

Zeal Produces Win For Local Gamblers

He who laughs last, laughs best. Or so the saying goes.

And Howard Olson and Bob Chapman will bear it out.

During last week's intra-mural football game between Sig Ep and Theta Chi, Olson and Chapman ran up and down the sidelines yelling for more points. Sig Ep already led, 14 to 0.

Why? It seems that Olson had placed a slight wager with Jack Fraenkel on the outcome of the game. And Olson had given himself a handicap of twenty points. Chapman and Jim Lastovica had a similar wager, but with an 18-point difference.

Olson himself entered the game in an effort to protect his skin. But try as he would, he could not get the ball for his team.

Then with 25 seconds left in the game, Roger Orr intercepted a Theta Chi pass and started down the field. Some sideline observers swore that Olson blocked at least five men.

Elsewhere on this page is the full explanation of the result . . . the win for Olson and Chapman. It need only be said that Sig Ep's won, 20 to 0, and two Sig Ep backers are sporting eight malted milks.

Intramural Teams Score Easy Wins

By Charlie Rice

Excessive scoring punch highlighted the first two intramural football contests this week, as Sigma Phi Epsilon scored a 20-0 win over Theta Chi and Pi Kappa Alpha raced to a 27-6 conquest of ROTC.

In Monday's game the Pi Kaps opened scoring early in the initial period as Don Blocker intercepted a Dick Westin pass and ran 20 yards to score. The Pikes tallied again a few minutes later on a 25-yard pass from Charlie Platt to Dave Langevin.

ROTC quickly recovered and made the score 14-6 on a pass from Bob Chedester to Archie Templeton for a play that covered 70 yards to the end zone.

Brendon Gallagher made the third Pi Kap tally as he intercepted another Westin aerial and ran thirty yards for the score.

Only one play crossed the goal during the second half, which produced a tight defense by both teams. Pi Kap got the only last half marker on a five-yard pass from Gallagher to Kyle Pettit.

In Tuesday's contest an intercepted pass and two long aerials accounted for all of the scoring.

Sigma Phi Epsilon scored their first touchdown early in the opening frame when Bob Moscrey pitched to Tom Mosiman, who passed 55 yards into the arms of Harold Sage in the end zone.

Moscrey intercepted a Larry Brehm aerial a few minutes later and danced 40 yards down the sidelines for the second score.

A nip and tuck battle ensued the rest of the contest until the Sig Ep came to life late in the contest to score the final tally.

With 42 seconds remaining in the game Moscrey pitched a 35-yard aerial to Dick McKee on the Theta Chi 18. On the next play Mosiman flipped to Lee Nelson in the end zone for the score on the last play of the game.

Theta Chi's only threat came early in the second half when Ronnie Abboud intercepted a Moscrey pass and raced to the Sig Ep two. But Larry Brehm was caught for a ten-yard loss, ending the threat.

In today's contest Lambda Chi Alpha will play Phi Epsilon Pi, and on Monday Theta Chi will vie against ROTC. Tuesday's contest will see the Blackhawks playing Sigma Phi Epsilon.

New Swimming Club Organizers Plan Extensive Activities for Coming Year

Nearly thirty prospective members attended a meeting of the newly organized Omaha University Swimming Club Wednesday in Room 385.

At the organization meeting, the club stressed the importance of a membership drive and also discussed extensive plans for the coming year.

The club plans to offer instructions in canoeing and river trips, row boating, sailing, race contests and skiing. Future plans include the purchase of a sailboat.

Plans also include swimming instructions and facilities, which will be provided by the Red Cross.

William O'Hearn, head of the Red Cross first aid program, told the group that the Red Cross may be able to provide summer jobs as lifesavers and in summer camps.

He also told the organization about a similar group at Northwestern University which puts on an annual water show. This show has become so successful that the group makes enough money to send its swim team to Florida each year for a swim clinic.

O'Hearn also announced that he will give one member of the organization a scholarship to one of the aquatic schools. The member would be chosen by the club. It would be an annual award.

The club will meet again next Wednesday in Room 385. Organizers are stressing the point that students wishing to belong do not need to know how to swim. They may receive instructions through the club.

Swink Picks 19-Man ROTC Rifle Squad

Nineteen cadets have been named to serve on the 1952 AF-ROTC rifle team. M/Sgt. Wm. Swink, coach, and Cadet Capt. Frank Sedlacek, team captain, announced the selections early this week.

The present squad is subject to change at any time, with new cadets moving into team spots as they improve and surpass cadets already on the team.

Those chosen for the squad include Darrell Cox, Gilbert Davis, Robert Forrey, James Ryan, Rodney Couser, Fred McCormick, Donald Schroeder, Donald Olson, Samuel Georges, Emmett Shields, Glen Gowen, Thomas Tingley, Gordon Smith, Wayne Hanson, Gilbert Uhler, Phillip Kaus and Sedlacek.

Tony Roth and Jerry Welling, who served on the team last year, are also slated for berths on the '52 squad. Both Roth and Welling are occupied with football chores at the present time.

At present the team's schedule is not complete. However, a full slate should be scheduled within the next two weeks.

The first match of the season will be a postal match with the University of Connecticut on Nov. 19. Schedules in the Intercity League are still tentative but firing should commence by the end of October.

PE Women Hold Meet Wednesday

Room 100 was the meeting place for 26 women PE minors Wednesday, Oct. 8, at 5:30 p. m.

The femmes, who compose the Physical Education Minors club held a regular business meeting. Chairmen for the coming year were announced.

They include Beverly Pace, over-all chairman; Connie Jacobson, program chairman; Beverly Peteren, service chairman, and Joan Thorson, social chairman.

George Hill, who is in charge of organizing the Red Cross swimming program for handicapped children, gave a short talk on the program.

Plans for the club's annual overnight were also discussed during the meeting.

The Theta Chi Sweater Girl Dance, the first annual all-Greek dance of the season, will be held this evening at the Peony Park Ballroom.

The dance is slated from 9 p. m. to 12 p. m. with all the Greeks and their dates dancing to the music of Eddy Haddad and his orchestra.

The ballroom will be decorated with red and white crepe paper streamers and multicolored balloons. The ballroom will also feature miniature sweaters for each one of the sororities and fraternities in that organization's colors.

Pi Kappa Alpha Pledges Lead Actives Merry Chase

By Lorrie Lemen

Pi Kappa Alpha pledges skipped from the active meeting Tuesday night.

The actives began the chase at 7:15. They were given their first clue on 16th and Farnam by a person in the crowd. They were told to put on girls garb and march down to 16th and Dodge and back. The rest of the actives followed singing the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi.

When they got back Aksel Schmidt and Jerry Welling played jacks on the street corner. A large crowd was attracted, soon the boys had the attention of a rookie policeman on his beat. The policeman was so good looking that one of the Pikes dressed as a woman couldn't resist chucking him under the chin.

Girls who had gone along to watch the fun took pictures of all. Meanwhile Jack Frost was sent to get water from Elmwood for the winner of the jacks game. Jerry Welling received the prize.

The next two clues were not found after chasing from one end of town to another. The actives decided to return to Jack Frost's home where they received the tip off as the whereabouts of the pledges.

Pi Kaps piled into cars and went to get the pledges, first going to the wrong house and then finally to 317 S. 57th where the pledges had hidden until this time.

The pledges activated were Ken Borchert, Hank Boleck, Dick Kimbell, Jim Van Camp, Jim Vickery, and Lowell Jensen, an alumnus.

Disappointment was great with the pledges that the actives decided not to require any hazing. Meanwhile the pledges too tore up their list of duties that actives were to perform if they hadn't succeeded in their hunt.

Afterwards all went down to the Leavenworth Grill to drown sorrows and celebrate.
